

An Approach to Japanese A Literature based on its interaction with the International Baccalaureate's Theory of Knowledge (TOK)

In the International Baccalaureate education, Knowledge is taught comprehensively through a curriculum that emphasizes the relationship between the different disciplines. The TOK (Theory Of Knowledge), which is at the core of the IB education, aims to enrich the thinking process by looking at things and thoughts in a critical and multilateral way. By focusing on the relationship between disciplines it is expected that Knowledge and subject learning can mutually influence each other and help deepen understanding. The TOK also intersects with the subject of language courses and as such is linked to a deeper understanding of Literature. In this study meeting we will study the relationship between the TOK and other disciplines and discuss the possibilities this offers for Japanese lessons inside the IB framework.
