Kayla's May

☆It has been a busy month for every one! School excursions, Golden week and exams! The weather is also getting very warm very quickly, so make sure you're well hydrated throughout the day!

☆Before the start of Golden Week, I went on the school excursion with the Junior 2nd years to Mother Farm in Chiba. It had been a while since I visited a farm, and it reminded me of my school excursions to farms in Australia. Everyone really enjoyed making blueberry jam from scratch, as well as eating it with crackers after it was freshly made. There were many different kinds of animals on the farm – cows, horses, sheep, hares, and Capybaras. For lunch, I had my first 'Genghis Khan' meal that is made up of meat and vegetables cooked on a special grill. It was so yummy!

☆During Golden Week, I went to see some of the beautiful flowers that were blossoming in Kasukabe, Saitama. Among them were the flowing branches of wisteria. They were so beautiful swaying in the wind that couldn't stop

☆Last weekend, I went to my favorite band's live concert at the Nihon Budoukan. It was a 2 days special concert, so I went on both Saturday and Sunday! I had a great time singing and dancing to every performance, and can't wait to see them perform again in October.

Grace's May

♥ Hi everyone, I hope you've had a wonderful month. I'm sure you're all glad that the exams are over and are enjoying being able to relax for a while.

♥ I have had a great month in May. Some of my friends from New Zealand have recently moved to Tokyo for university and work so I've been enjoying showing them some of my favorite cafes, shops and other areas around Tokyo. We have especially been enjoying spending weekends having picnics in Yoyogi Park and enjoying the lovely warm weather.

♥ I have also been focusing more on studying Japanese recently. I have a group of friends who meet up once a week at a café to study together for a few hours. It's always fun and motivating to study with friends, though sometimes we have to be careful that we don't chat in English for too long!

♥ I also went to a wonderful Koto concert in Naka-Meguro where I saw Asuka Koto play live. She's a very young and talented Koto player, and she composes really interesting music.
